The waning days of winter

Spring arrives Saturday, and departing winter is rapidly losing its mild grip on the region. Here, ice shacks bask in the winter sun, sheltered by the granite mini-massif of Mt. Christopher. The weatherpeople seem to agree the coming weekend will be a fine one. Enjoy -- but take care if you venture out onto the ice.

For Marie Bartlett:

A baker's-dozen years in the oven of town politics is enough

By ALISON ALOISIO

The high point of Marie Bartlett's 13 years on the Greenwood Board of Selectmen was the town's 175th anniversary celebration in 1988.

The low point was the shocking discovery that their former town manager, Liz Lavalette, had allegedly embezzled money from two towns, including Greenwood.

Bartlett will retire from her selectmen's position this month, after serving the town many years longer than she originally expected she would. On Monday, she looked back on her four terms in office.

Always a project or cause

Her selectman's career began in 1986, when she agreed to fill out one year left on resigned selectman Wayne Redman's term. She also consented to serve one full term after that.

"I was going to go one more three-year term, Bartlett said. "I ended up with 13 years." Town residents, she said, encouraged her to stay on the board each time her term was up. She has served as chairman for the past 10 years.

Bartlett will likely be remembered as one of the most active selectmen in the area. "I was always on a cause, or project," she said.

The list Bartlett cites is an impressive one: the conversion of the old schoolhouse to the current municipal building; Greenwood's purchase of the Town Beach on South Pond; the implementation of recycling in Greenwood, before the establishment of the Oxford County

Solid Waste and Recycling Corporation; organized opposition to several SAD44 school budgets that Bartlett and others felt would overburden taxpayers; the effort to get the state to crack down on the Gordon tire disposal operation; the 1989 decision against placing a tax lien on Gilbert Manufacturing; the 1995 vote to make SAD44 school budgets decided by referendum ballot rather than by a Town-Meeting-style vote; and, most recently, the issue of banning "jet skis" on town ponds.

Bartlett is quick to say she was not necessarily the leader or initiator of the various efforts, but played an active role in each of them.

Timing of Planning Board's request for more waiver authority questioned

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Members of the Bethel Planning Board believe the board should have the authority to waive provisions of the ordinance setting standards for private roads.

The town selectmen don't necessarily disagree, but they turned down Monday a request from the Planning Board to place an article granting that authority on the warrant for the special Town Meeting scheduled for April 5 (called to deal again with financing for the treatment plant upgrade).

The selectmen did agree, however, to put the matter of waiver authority for private roads before voters at the annual Town Meeting in June.

Planning Board chairman Frank Vogt told the selectmen that the article proposed by the Planning Board was largely a housekeeping matter, and would merely grant the planners the same discretion over road standards that they already exercise over most other ordinance provisions they employ when reviewing projects.

"This matter has been in the minds collectively of Planning Boards for the past 10 years or more," Vogt told the selectmen. But it has been sort of orphaned when the time came to get something on the warrant for regular Town Meetings -- somehow it's fallen through the cracks. "It's kind of a common-sense issue: so we can deal more reasonably without violating the spirit and intent of the ordinance," he said.

But the selectmen questioned the timing of the request, especially in view of the fact that there is a subdivision application currently before the Planning Board that is likely to require such a waiver if it is to be approved.

Will View is a proposed 22-lot subdivision on 29.5 acres of land off the Sunday River Road.

Access to the new subdivision would be along a portion of a private road built in 1972 to serve the adjacent Sunday Valley Acres subdivision. But the right of way for that road is only 50 feet wide, rather than the 60 feet called for by the current standards (which were adopted 10 years ago).

Abutters to the proposed subdivision believe the Planning Board

Gray, Gould shine in Jr. Olympics

by LAUREN SIMARD

Current and former Gould Academy skiers took top spots last week in the Junior Olympic Alpine Championships at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Gould Academy graduate Parker Gray '97 of Newry captured the overall title as Eastern Junior Olympic Champion.

Gray will travel to Park City, Utah to compete in next week's USSA/Chevy Trucks United States Senior Alpine Championships. Ben Drummond '99 of Freedom, N.H. grabbed silver, finishing second overall in the week's championship events.

More than 170 young racers, ages 15-16 (level JII) and 17-19 (level JI) competed in the five-day event, which ended Sunday.

In winning the overall title, Gray took first place in the downhill, successfully defending his 1998 title as Eastern Junior Downhill Champion. Ben Drummond finished second and Keegan Burke '01 of Bethel took third.

Gould's Kristian Knights '99 finished 16th, Matt Macko '00, 27th, Brent Grygiel '00, 35th, Andre Vandembulcke '00, 40th, and Patrick Donovan '01, 47th.

In the girls' downhill race, Jodi Curry finished 15th and Caroline Riss '99 finished 16th.

In Thursday's Super G, Gray finished a close second behind Gordon Gray of the Green Mountain Valley School, and Drummond finished third.

Sunday River's appeal in skier-death suit fails

Resort must pay $800,000

By MICHAEL DANIELS/A.P.

The Maine Supreme Court last week upheld a $600,000 award to a Massachusetts woman whose husband died from injuries sustained in a 1993 ski accident at Sunday River.

The ski resort was also ordered to pay $200,000 in interest and costs.

A superior court jury in South Paris granted the award in November 1997, after finding that the resort was negligent for failing to do enough to warn Andrew Hansen of an icy patch on the expert White Heat trail.

Hansen, a 48-year-old dentist from Swampscott, Mass., had been skiing with six others from his hometown Rotary Club when he slid into trees and suffered abdominal injuries. Hansen, who was considered an expert skier, died two weeks later at Maine Medical Center in Portland.

His wife, Christina Hansen, filed suit against the resort in 1995.

Her suit contended that Sunday River "was negligent in its maintenance and operation of this slope," -- leading to her husband's death.

The day before Hansen's accident, another Massachusetts skier died after sliding 1,000 feet and into trees bordering the same trail.

Local Town Meetings:

Upton budget will drop

By ALISON ALOISIO

Upton voters attending tonight's (Thursday) annual Town Meeting will find themselves in an enviable position -- their mill rate will likely drop if they approve the selectmen's proposed budget.

The 1999 total of $120,808 comes in at $15,000 below the 1998 approved budget of $135,897. (Both budget totals include municipal, county and school costs.)

The current mill rate of 11.83 could decline by as much as 2 mills, according to selectman Richard LeComte.

Much of the decrease is accounted for by the fact that the town paid $28,000 cash for a new plow truck in 1998, and is now done with the expense.

1999 proposals

A proposed new expense in this year's budget is a new town garage to house the plow truck. The vehicle is currently parked outside at the road commissioner's home. The garage would be built next to the Town Office.

The cost of the structure is estimated at $15,000. The 30-by-36-foot building would also be big enough for Upton's loader.

POLITICAL Rx FOR LYME DISEASE

To the editor:

In 1999, Lyme Disease will be a frequent topic in the news, already there is a new bill in Congress and the FDA has approved the first Lyme Disease vaccine.

It has been 24 years since Polly Murray, a housewife in Lyme, Conn., alerted the State Health Department of the strange symptoms she'd been observing in her family and other area residents over a 10-year period. It is now known that Lyme Disease is a widespread illness occurring across the country and around the world, and has become the fastest emerging infectious disease in the United States. Although some "experts" speak of Lyme Disease as an uncommon illness that is easily detected and treated with short courses of antibiotics, there is a growing accumulation of compelling evidence which documents that this is not the case.

The present guidelines developed by the CDC for diagnosing Lyme Disease miss up to 40 percent of Lyme Disease cases, depending on which study is quoted. And a recent survey done in New York, a state highly endemic for Lyme, revealed that less than 50 percent of patients diagnosed with Lyme Disease recalled a tick bite or had a classic bull's eye rash. This means many people infected with Lyme Disease are falling through the cracks and unknowingly missing the important opportunity for early curative treatment. For many there have been years of unwellness, and once the diagnosis has been made, lengthier and more difficult treatment has often been needed. Unfortunately for some, the disease has been incurable.

Federal attention is being drawn to this illness by Congressman Christopher Smith of New Jersey. New Jersey has experienced a rapid rise in the rate of new Lyme cases reported, and of note Gov. Christine Todd Whitman and her husband have been afflicted with tick transmitted illnesses.

In May 1998 Rep. Smith introduced to the House the Lyme Initiative Act (H-3795) and subsequently Sen. Chris Dodd introduced the identical bill (S-2034) to the Senate. The bill has been endorsed by 65 Lyme Disease information and support organizations and leaders around the country. In a speech, the Congressman credited this accomplishment in part to the tireless efforts of Patricia Smith, the president of the Lyme Disease Association of New Jersey. Mrs. Smith is also the mother of two children who have suffered from severe Lyme Disease for over 10 years.

Rep. Chris Smith states: "The Lyme Disease Initiative Act provides a program to fight Lyme Disease on several fronts within the federal government." If passed the bill would bring $100 million of funding to Lyme Disease research and education. The primary focus is the development of a widely accepted and accurate detection test for diagnosing Lyme Disease. Another component of the bill is the creation of a physician education program to help physicians stay informed of the most up-to-date knowledge regarding Lyme Disease. The bill also requests re-examination of the controversial CDC criteria for reported Lyme Disease and the formation of a Federal Lyme Disease Task Force.

"Hopefully the 106th Congress will pass the Lyme Disease Initiative Act and mark a turning point in the fight against Lyme Disease," said Patricia Smith.

If you are concerned about Lyme Disease and wish to contact Maine Senators and Representatives regarding this legislation, the following is a list of their addresses and phone numbers: Sen. Susan Collins, 11 Lisbon Street, Lewiston, ME 04240 (Phone: 784-6969); Sen. Olympia Snowe, 2 Great Falls Plaza, Auburn, ME 04210 (Phone: 800-432-1599); Rep. CAREER WEEK THANKS

To the editor:

I would like to commend Telstar High School, the Guidance department and staff for the Career Week program offered to juniors and seniors. It enables our kids to be "out in the world" having unique experiences that are as important to their education as what they are learning in the classroom.

A huge debt of gratitude also goes to the Outward Bound School for providing my son with a Career Week experience in outdoor education that has had a profound affect on him in many positive ways. I admire and appreciate the professionalism of the course instructors, Laura Lutsk and Pete Hedden, in the face of last week's snowstorm, sub-zero temperatures and high winds plus a diverse group of people with varying abilities. Outward Bound is one of the true treasures in our community, and I'm only sorry more of our local young people haven't had a chance to be blessed with that experience. I am so thankful to Telstar's Career Week program for providing the context for my son to experience it.

A DOZEN THANKS

To the editor:

My family and I (12 of us) rode to Bethel on Saturday, Feb. 20, to see the snowman. We visited relatives (Don and Eleanor Brooks) and stayed overnight at the Rostay Motel.

I am writing to thank everyone who assisted in the building of "Angus," the snowman. It is awesome and fantastic. Thank you goes to the companies that provided the machinery. Thank you to all of the volunteers. Thank you to the people who made the beautiful scarf and tassels. Thank you to the person who dreamed up the idea of "Angus." Thank you to anyone who donated money. Thank you to anyone who was involved in making this snowman.

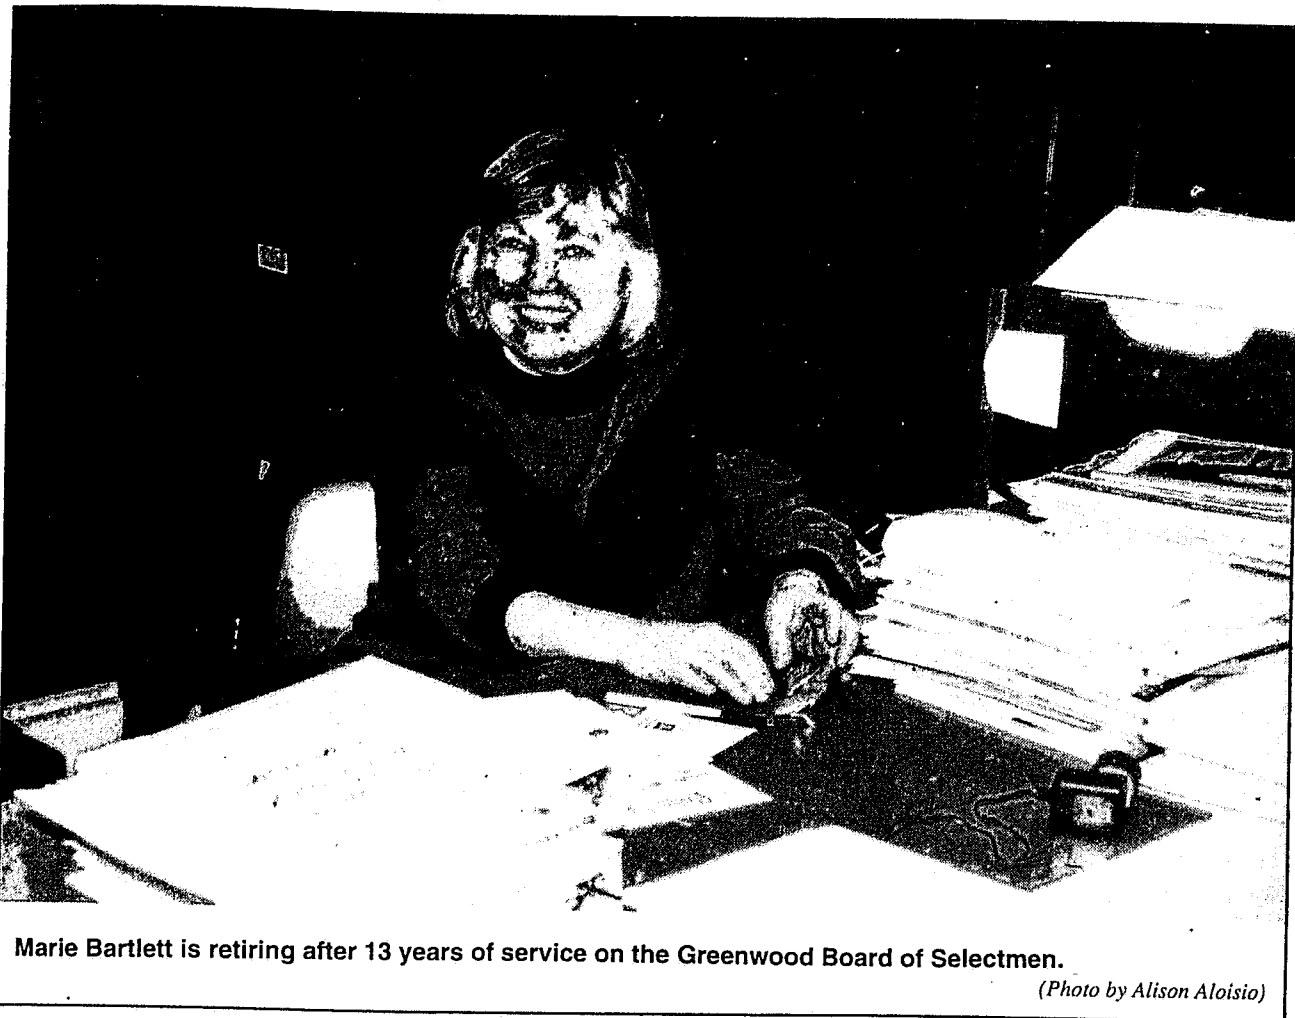

A big thank you from all 12 of us.

It was wonderful being back in my old hometown.

Bartlett

Having a strong interest in preserving the environment, Bartlett volunteered early on to help organize a recycling program in Greenwood. "I thought it could expand our recycling effort," she said. "I was very interested in that."

Her interest continues today. She currently serves as the director of education for OCSWRC.

Her satisfaction with recycling, however, is tempered by the continuing frustration of another long-term environmental issue -- the Gordon tire dump.

Bartlett, along with other town officials, went head-to-head with the Department of Environmental Protection officials to try to put a stop to the dumping of millions of tires on the Rabbit Road site. The operation was finally halted -- but most of the tires still remain, with efforts now underway to obtain state money to remove them. "That's the one thing left unfinished. I may never live long enough to see the end of that," she said.

Other accomplishments

Despite that frustration, other projects and decisions by the board have brought Bartlett satisfaction. She was pleased, she said, by the Board of Selectmen's efforts to help Gilbert Manufacturing in 1989.

The town was in a position to place mandatory liens on the property, but selectmen decided to call a special Town Meeting to authorize them to take no action.

It passed overwhelmingly, and said Bartlett, "Look at all the paychecks that have gone out (to employees) since then."

There was one project Bartlett does take major responsibility for spearheading, along with former Bethel selectman Pat Dooen: the referendum vote for the school district.

She still feels the change was a good move. "It brought the voting into every town," she said. SAD44 now brings the budget to each town prior to the vote as well, in the form of a public hearing. "It's a nice forum to air concerns. It's puts the selectmen's minds at ease." And said Bartlett, since the referendum was implemented, "there hasn't been any opposition (to the budget). There have been no revotes."

The town's 175th anniversary celebration was a high point for Bartlett. "Everybody worked together, and I like to see the town work together," she said. The event also raised money that was used to put vinyl siding on the municipal building, so the celebration had a visible, lasting effect also, she said.

Lavalette incident "devastating" The Liz Lavalette episode will also have a lasting effect on Bartlett -- a painful one.

Lavalette was found to have embezzled money from her former employer, town, West Stockbridge, Mass., as well as Greenwood. She resigned in late 1996 as Greenwood's first-ever town manager, after a tenure of only a few months.

"It was devastating. I still haven't really recovered from that," she said. Bartlett had considered Lavalette a friend, and felt betrayed by her actions.

Residents of Greenwood handled the disastrous result of its first hiring of a town manager fairly well, Bartlett believes. They did not lose faith in the form of government itself, she said.

"The first time out of the gate -- it was one of the worst things that could have happened. But they liked the concept. If they hadn't, they would have thrown it out, especially after that fiasco," she said.

'I may never live long enough to see the end of that.'

on cleanup of the tire dump

Following the incident, said Bartlett, "We (the selectmen) and Lloyd Decato, the interim town manager, thought we were going to have a nervous breakdown together," trying to pick up the pieces of the town government. She still expresses her gratitude to Decato and several deputy clerks, as well as the neighboring towns of Woodstock and Bethel, for help in getting Greenwood back on track. With current manager Carol Whitman, said Bartlett, it's been "smooth sailing."

No more ducking down aisles

Overall, the town manager plan is one she recommends to similarly-sized towns like Andover, which is currently studying the option.

Nowadays, she said, selectmen "not only have to be a selectman, they have to be half attorney." She had spent a lot of time in recent years talking with attorneys on town business. Now, she said, "you have the town manager doing the research. You're making decisions instead of gathering information."

And with the town manager also handling day-to-day work and issues, Bartlett said, she can once again browse the aisles of the Bethel Foodliner without fear.

Gone are the days "when I used to see someone I knew who might have possible pothole problems, and I'd sneak down an aisle (to avoid the person)," said Bartlett. "I didn't want to deal with it in the potato chip aisle."

The quickening pace of people's lifestyles -- and its effect on their temperaments -- also argues in favor of a manager, said Bartlett.

Often short on time, they come to the Town Office with a complaint "furious before they come through the door," she said. "People are more uptight. They used to just come and ask what might be done (to address a problem)."

Important to listen

Through all the ups and downs of the past 13 years, Bartlett credits her survival with remembering to listen to the people she represents -- and keep their confidences when asked.

"You are directly affecting them. Your decisions make an impact on their wallets and their lifestyle, she said. "You've got to know what they are thinking. I owe a lot to the people who have made the phone calls to my home to give me their opinion."

The job has also had its pleasures -- like working with the selectmen from other towns. "I've enjoyed it. They didn't see the boundary lines from town to town," she said.

But the 13 years have also left her "mentally tired. It does take its toll," she said, leading to her decision to retire.

Bartlett hopes future selectmen will serve with an eye on the bottom line of the town budget, and "try to balance moving the town forward without losing sight of its past."

She also hopes selectmen and the town will make recycling mandatory, in the not-too-distant future, for the sake of both the environment and taxpayers' pocketbooks.

What's next for Bartlett? "I'd like to stay involved in projects," she said, particularly recycling. She plans to continue her role as director of education.

And now that she's going off the board, the phone calls to join various committees are coming in. She'll have to be careful how much to take on, she said, or she may end up busier than she was as a selectman.

As busy as she may continue to be, her years on the Board of Selectmen will make for good memories overall, Bartlett said. Walking away may not be easy. "It's like a big chapter of your life closes," she said.

Praised as a team player

By ALISON ALOISIO

When Marie Bartlett told former Greenwood selectman Harry Swan several months ago that she was going to retire, Swan was skeptical. "I told her, 'I don't believe you. I think you'll be right there,'" he said. Only recently did Bartlett finally convince him she really meant it.

Swan, who served seven years before retiring himself in 1997, said Greenwood won't be the same without Bartlett. "I enjoyed working with her. The town's going to miss her, too. She was an asset," he said.

Steve Wight, Newry's first selectman, praised Bartlett's efforts in Oxford County's recycling program. "She was instrumental in getting the recycling effort going in the county, and ensuring our towns were a part of it," he said. "She was also a team player in helping the towns work together to get a (fire department) mutual aid pact (several years ago)."

Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield has worked with Bartlett since he took his position 10 years ago. "It's been my pleasure to work with her as a municipal official in a neighboring community. I know her contributions and dedication to the town will now continue in other ways, and be long remembered," he said.

Pat Dooen, former Bethel selectwoman, said it was common over the years for various elected officials in the area to focus only on the interests of their own towns. "There was none of that with Marie," said Dooen. "She looked at all of the towns, and could see the larger picture."

Besides Bartlett's accomplishments, said Dooen, "one of the greatest things about Marie is her sense of humor." Years ago, Dooen attended a Maine Municipal Association meeting with Bartlett in Augusta, and went out to lunch with her and a group of other selectmen. Their waitress was very busy with them throughout the meal, and when the time came to leave a tip, most of the group was very generous.

But, said Dooen, "There was one person in the group who didn't like to spend money (on town expenses). When he saw how much we were tipping, he went back to the table as we left and picked up his own tip," she said. Bartlett saw him, and couldn't stop laughing all the way out of the restaurant.

"I don't think Marie ever got over that," said Dooen.

Briefly

Small turnout at cable TV hearing

BETHEL—Only a handful of residents, most of them involved with SAD44 or the local public-access channel, turned out for Monday's public hearing on the town's upcoming negotiations with its cable television provider. Echoing the sentiments of speakers at two earlier hearings on the same topic, Ernest Angevine and Elaine Cross urged the selectmen to press to have cable service extended to more areas of town, especially the North and East Bethel roads. Natalie Timberlake, representing Channel IV, said the station needed funds to support a paid staff person, and money to have on hand for the purchase of more equipment. Peter Kuzyk and Bruce Powell, both of SAD44, argued for replacing with fiber optics the present copper "loop" that connects town schools, the Town Office and library -- a recommendation that was seconded by Dutch Dresser, chairman of the Board of Selectmen. The selectmen later agreed to work with a consultant to draft a Request for Proposals for future cable service. The town's current contract with FrontierVision expires in June.

Hearing on rollerblade etc. regs.

BETHEL—A public hearing has been scheduled for May 3 to solicit public input regarding proposed changes that would relax some of the town's restrictions on the use of rollerblades, skateboards, and in-line skis in the village area. Currently, such modes of personal transportation are banned in most areas of the village. The hearing is part of a process that has been underway since last summer, when rollerblader Mike Bjorderick complained the current ordinance is unnecessarily restrictive and unfairly discriminates against the users of such devices. The hearing will be held at 7 p.m. in the Town Office meeting room.

Gas leak has happier ending

NEWRY—An outdoor gas leak at the Powder Ridge townhouses brought out firefighters from Newry and Bethel Sunday -- and they stayed out for 10 hours while the gas company labored to fix the leak, according to Newry Fire Chief Brad Wight. A smell of gas was first detected by a resident Saturday but was not reported, Wight said. On Sunday at about 1:30 p.m., a young man departing his parents' condominium called them in Massachusetts to say he smelled gas. The parents then called Sunday River Ski Resort, which is in charge of maintaining the townhouses. Firefighters responded and evacuated about 15 people in the complex, Wight said. The leak appeared to be coming from an underground gas tank. A propane detecting device was brought in by the Bethel Fire Department, and around 3:30 p.m. the concentration of gas was measured. It read very high near the tank, Wight said. Community Gas Co. workers then determined a broken valve was causing the problem. The tank was drained of the remaining gas, and a new valve arrived at about 8 p.m. Occupants of the condominiums returned to their units at about 11:30 p.m., after the units were tested for gas concentration. Wight said it was fortunate Sunday was a windy day, because the gas dispersed more quickly. Still, he said, firefighters refrained from using their radios within a 200-foot radius of the tank. In November, a propane explosion in a duplex unit seriously burned Wight's hand and face, and caused less severe burns to two other firefighters.

No middle ground on timeshares

NEWRY—A group of municipal officials and representatives of timeshare interests met in Augusta last week to discuss methods for assessing the tax value of such units -- and came away agreeing to disagree, according to Newry selectman Wendy Hanscom. Timeshare units in Bethel have this year been valued much higher than they had been previously, when they were merely condominiums. The higher assessment resulted from an increase in the total market value of the units. But timeshare associations have argued the method is unfair, because of what they say is the high cost of marketing the units. The legislature is scheduled to consider a bill that, if approved, would result in lower assessments. The municipal officials argue costs of marketing should not be broken out, or the same approach would have to be taken on all real estate. Hanscom said there appeared to be no middle ground between the two groups. Municipal representatives included officials from Rockport, Wells, Ogunquit, Carrabassett Valley, Bethel and Newry. The issue will now go on to a public hearing and consideration at the Legislative committee level.

Introducing: The Telstar Band

BETHEL—The 58-member Telstar High School/Middle School Band will perform a concert March 18 at 7 p.m. at the Helen Berry Auditorium. Also featured will be the Telstar High School Vocal Ensemble. Music teacher Jennifer Christiansen will conduct both groups. The band program was reinstated this school year after falling to budget cuts earlier in the decade. This will be the new band's first concert.

Come see the library

WOODSTOCK—An open house is scheduled the next three days at the Whitman Memorial Library to allow residents to view the progress on the library expansion project. Hours will be 2 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

Transit study contract approved

BETHEL—Selectmen Monday approved a contract to conduct a study of a possible transit system to connect Bethel, Newry and Sunday River Ski Resort. The study will be done by the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments, and will cost $24,000. Much of the funding ($20,000) will come from a State Planning Office grant. The remainder will be provided by Sunday River Ski Resort, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and AVCOG itself. Public meetings to gather information are planned for the next few months, with a final plan to be completed in mid-July. The study will look at the possible use of trolleys, buses and other forms of transportation, as well as the potential for linking the Bethel area to other areas of Oxford County.

Scenic Byway meeting for Rte. 26

NEWRY—The first meeting to appoint a local committee to work on the Route 26 Scenic Byway program will be held on March 25 at 7 p.m. at the Newry Town Office. The meeting will inform residents about MDOT's Scenic Byway program, discuss public participation and conclude with an open discussion regarding what residents value about Route 26. This is an opportunity for residents to be heard and to serve on the advisory committee. Residents of Bethel, Grafton, Newry and Upton are urged to attend.

Firemen to burn up slopes

NEWRY—The 10th annual Firefighters' Race and Eat the Heat Chili Cookoff will take place Sunday, March 21, at Sunday River Ski Resort. Firefighters will race down a giant slalom course in full turnout gear, carrying a 50-foot fire hose. The chili will be judged by TV and radio personalities. Competing cooks will each make five gallons of chili from scratch. Proceeds from both events will benefit Maine Handicapped Skiing. Sunday's competitions will follow Saturday's MHS 14th annual Ski-a-Thon fundraiser.

Loggers fired in CLP violation

ALLAGASH—Two Maine loggers, including a leader of last fall's protests along the Canadian border, were fired last week from a wood-cutting job on state-owned land for failing to use certified safe-cutting practices. Hilton Hafford said he and his cousin, Toby Hafford, were fired for refusing to use tree-cutting procedures spelled out under the Certified Logging Program. CLP employs a more open, longer-faced notch to keep the tree attached to its stump as it falls. Hilton Hafford was a leader of last October's blockade that kept logging trucks from passing through several border crossings between Quebec and Maine.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Tales of fails, jails, bails

At 12:13 a.m. on March 11 police received a report of a possible intoxicated driver heading west into Bethel on Route 2. On stopping the vehicle, the officer found the driver was showing signs of intoxication. He was given several field sobriety tests, and based on those tests was arrested for OUI. Jeffrey M. Dion, 21, of Hampton, N.H. was taken to the Oxford County Jail, where he was given a breath test (.15 percent result) and held in lieu of bail.

Also on March 11

At 7:30 p.m. police served Patricia Allen of Bethel a summons for assault.

At 6:05 p.m. police stopped a vehicle on the Mayville Rd. for a vehicle defect. It was found the registration had expired in November of 1998. George V. Bennett, 30, of Bethel was summonsed for the offense.

Saturday, March 13

At 1:40 a.m. a subject was observed staggering in the parking lot of a Route 2 business. David W. Fallon, 41, of Essex, Mass. was given field sobriety tests and was eventually arrested for OUI. A license check showed his license had been under suspension since 1981. He was taken to the Oxford County Jail, where he refused a breath test. Summonses were issued for the offenses.

Monday, March 15

At 10:45 p.m. police observed a car westbound on Route 2 almost strike a state pickup truck. The officer followed the car and saw it almost strike the truck again, all the time swerving back and forth in the westbound lane. The driver, Paul A. Spacht, 29, of Bethel was given three sobriety tests, which he failed. He was taken into custody for OUI and taken to the Oxford County Jail.

Point of Law:

What should you do if you have an auto accident? The State of Maine requires the driver of any vehicle involved in an auto accident resulting in injuries to or death of any person; or, property damage in the apparent amount of $500 or more, to immediately notify a law enforcement agent or agency in the town, city or county where the accident occurred. In addition, the driver of the vehicle is required to file a written report within 48 hours of the accident with the Secretary of the State of Maine.

The driver of any vehicle involved in an accident resulting in property damage should take reasonable steps to locate and notify the owner of such property. The driver of the vehicle should provide his/her name, address, registration number of the vehicle which he/she was driving and shall, upon request and if available, exhibit his/her operator's license and make a report of such accident when and if it is required by law.

It is important that you report, as soon as you are able, the facts of the accident to your insurance company, if you are insured. Be careful about admitting liability at the scene of the accident because the facts may be such that you are not liable or not fully responsible. The time right after the accident is usually an emotion-charged period and one may not be thinking at his or her best level.

If you would like a copy of the legal information pamphlet titled "If You Have an Auto Accident in the State of Maine," contact the Lawyer Referral & Information Service at (800) 860-1460. If you would like to listen to recorded messages designed to provide basic information about the law, call Tel-Law at 622-1470 or PhoneME at 772-3333, ext. 5296.

Sunday River

In defending itself against Hansen's suit, Sunday River contended its ski patrol posted a "caution" sign at the top of the trail and placed orange and black bamboo poles above a change in pitch that hid a large patch of packed snow and ice.

The bamboo poles, in the form of a tripod, were placed just above the steep White Heat headwall, to the "skiers-right" side of the trail, according to Evan Hansen (no relation) of Portland, the lawyer who represented Sunday River.

Skiers approaching the hazardous area had the option of staying to the left, where conditions were safer, Evan Hansen said.

But the Supreme Judicial Court said last Thursday that the superior court jury could have found that the warnings gave a false impression that skiers were safe as long as they skied around the bamboo poles.

Andrew Hansen skied past the bamboo tripod to its left, according to Sunday River, then turned into the hazardous area and lost control.

But Christina Hansen's lawyer, William Robitsek, said the skier did not slip around the bamboo poles. He said the icy patch was unavoidable because it extended 15 feet beyond the warning poles. He also said Hansen's five skiing buddies didn't even see the warnings.

"This was not a case of skiing around those bamboo poles. This was skiing in an area that should have been marked," Robitsek said.

Sunday River contended it was not responsible for Andrew Hansen's death because the accident was the result of inherent risks in skiing.

"Anybody who skied White Heat (as Hansen had) knows that the kind of conditions that were there on the day in question are very similar to what one may encounter there frequently. ... it's usually pretty hard," said Attorney Hansen.

'You're better off not warning at all.'

Skiway attorney Evan Hansen

But the supreme court said it is up to juries to decide when accidents are the result of an "inherent risk."

"Obviously we're extremely disappointed with the decision," Chip Seamans, managing director at Sunday River, said following the decision. "We don't think it's right. The patrol did take steps to mark. The irony in the case is we may have been better off without marking."

No good deed goes unpunished. The resort's lawyer agreed, and said the decision could open to lawsuits ski areas that attempt to mitigate the inherent dangers of the sport.

"Sunday River would have been better off in this case having done nothing," Hansen said, "rather than having put bamboo up, which we thought was a more-than-adequate warning for some harder conditions below."

According to Evan Hansen: "in oral arguments the plaintiff conceded that the icier, hard patch of snow where Andrew Hansen fell was an 'inherent risk of the sport of skiing,' and in such situations the burden is allocated to the skiers."

"But what the court's basically done," he said, "is say: 'if you undertake to provide a warning with regard to an inherent risk of the sport of skiing, then you can be held liable if a fact-finder concluded you didn't adequately warn.' So you're better off not warning at all in the abstract."

"I don't think it's good policy," he said of last week's decision, "but the law court has spoken and that's their judgment of how we're going to analyze such cases."

He said the Maine ruling is in contrast to a decision in California, where the court has ruled that where an inherent risk exists (for example, a ski tower) a ski area cannot be penalized for attempting to mitigate the extent of that risk (for example, by padding the tower).

Following last week's decision, he said, a skier in Maine who collided with a ski tower would not have a lawsuit against a ski area -- unless it was padded (in which case he could argue the risk the tower posed was inadequately mitigated).

"We feel strongly and still do," Hansen said, "that when a ski area undertakes to provide skiers with assistance in negotiating the inherent risks of skiing, the ski area shouldn't be penalized for doing that."

But he said Sunday River did not plan to appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

members are seeking the waiver authority now in order to position themselves to be able to approve Will View.

Sonny Cummings, whose home is adjacent to the proposed subdivision and Sunday River Road, presented the board with a petition -- signed by 93 voters -- asking that waivers to private road standards not be granted.

"I'm against such a waiver. You have a good ordinance. How many appeals have you had in the 10 years it's been going?" he asked.

Vogt said he was not aware of any.

Then why propose the change now? Cummings asked.

Planning Board member Dennis Doyon said it was not unusual for the Planning Board to seek ordinance revisions when it encounters specific situations that make it aware of the need for such a revision.

Regarding waivers for private road standards: "This is one that for years people said: 'This needs to be changed,'" he said, "but because nothing had really triggered it we didn't proceed (to seek the authority)."

In the case of Will View Acres, he argued, even with the narrower right of way, there was still more than adequate room for the actual travel way (which would be 22 feet wide).

The board, he said, would not use the waiver power to compromise safety or standards.

But selectman Bob Chadbourne returned to the question of the timing of the request, noting that it was the general policy of the Board of Selectmen not to put such issues before special Town Meetings, but rather to hold them for the next June meeting -- when more voters were likely to turn out.

"Is there any reason it's critical that (the change) be done at the special Town Meeting rather than at the regular Town Meeting, when we're more likely to have a more representative turnout of the town?" he asked.

"In brief -- no," Vogt replied. "It's not imperative; it just seemed to be timely."

'People seem to be concluding the timing of this request coincides with a particular waiver need.'

Selectmen Chair Dutch Dresser

Chadbourne said he was not opposed to the change. "It is a private road ordinance, and some would argue whether the town should even have an ordinance for private roads," he said. "I do think it's very fair that we should consider whether we should have a provision that would allow waivers under the circumstances described in the proposed article."

But, he said, he was still reluctant to put the matter before a special -- rather than a regular -- Town Meeting.

"I certainly have no sense of emergency about this," Vogt replied.

Dresser asked Vogt: "People seem to be concluding the timing of this request coincides with a particular waiver need and are responding accordingly. Is that a reasonable conclusion?"

"It sounds that way certainly," Vogt conceded.

Dresser said in view of the strong feelings surrounding the matter it would be best to hold the proposed article until the June meeting.

"There are a couple of legitimate debates that could hit the floor," he said.

Wording of petition questioned
Cummings' petition requests that town municipal officers "do not grant any amendments, waivers or variances to the Town of Bethel Private Road Design and Standards Ordinance."

But Dresser questioned whether the wording of the petition was relevant to the actual matter before the board -- whether to put the question to a Town Meeting vote.

"I don't think the Board of Selectmen tonight is being asked to (grant a waiver)," he said. "I think the Board of Selectmen tonight is being asked if they'll put an article on a warrant which would allow the entire town to address the question: 'Do you want a waiver amendment in this ordinance?'"

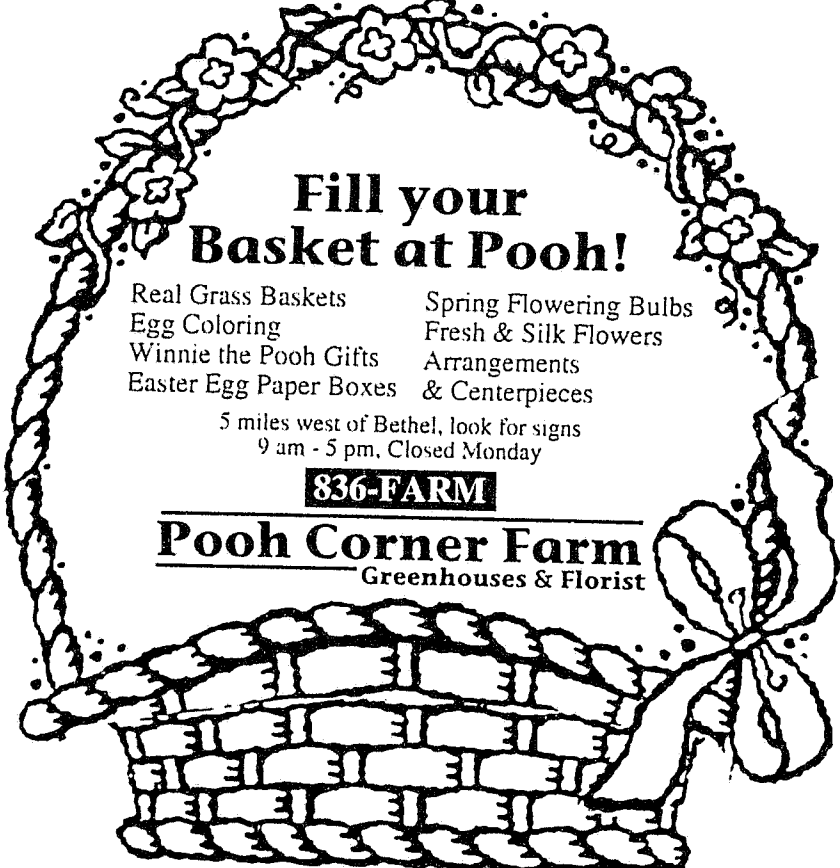

"I think I understand what you intended," he told Cummings, "but I don't think (the language of the petition) does what you intended."

The selectmen agreed to refer to the town attorney the question of how to deal with Cummings' petition.

And after some discussion, they concluded that putting the Planning Board's proposed amendment on the warrant for the June meeting would be the simplest and fairest way to let voters decide for themselves if they want such a change.

"It seems fair," said Chadbourne, "and it would certainly be fair to vote it down."

Selectman Al Barth agreed: "You get those 93 people there," he told Cummings "and the Planning Board will get their 93 people, ... and it's going to stay as it is or it's going to change."

GRADUATES Career Update

"I'm a CAD designer and my job involves preparing layouts, detail drawings, assemblies and bills of materials for new or improved products and custom order machine configurations. I work exclusively on computers using AutoCAD 14 and PRAXA software. I'm always learning something new because the technology changes so rapidly."

Learning AutoCAD was the best way to prepare for this job. The courses in the Manufacturing Technology program gave me a good foundation that has served me well. I could have started a career with my associate's degree, but I opted to transfer to Keene State and I graduated from both colleges in four years. If it wasn't for the transfer option, I would never have gone to Keene. The biggest lesson I learned in college was to set my goals and keep on track. Don't sell yourself short and settle for less than what you want to do."

or is it the 'Newry-Bethel' town line? quipped surveyor Gary Inman, who is surveying the line in the latest attempt to resolve the long-running dispute between the two towns over the exact location of the boundary. Inman, standing, reviewed a printout of the line with the Bethel Board of Selectmen at their regular meeting Monday evening. When the new line is finalized, some strips of land that are now taxed in one town are likely to be switched to the other, and town officials expect there will be opposition to the switch from some landowners -- especially those who will find themselves owing more taxes. Selectman Bob Chadbourn told Inman (jokingly): "The Maine Bar Association should give you some type of make-work award." Town officials shown here are, clockwise from left: selectmen Bob Chadbourn, Al Barth, Dutch Dresser, Town Manager Phil Tarr, Town Clerk Christen Mason and selectmen Don Bennett and Reggie Brown. Seated in the front row, Mike Broderick waits for a chance to update the selectmen on the review of regulations governing rollerblades in the village.

A significant increase is proposed in the Fire Protection Account. Because of a large structure fire last month, Upton must pay Errol, N.H. for its Fire Department's services. The bill has not yet been received, but selectmen are proposing $5,000 for the account, compared to 1998's $1,000.

The town's share of the school budget is $42,500, compared to the current school fiscal year cost of $33,626. Upton's local share and transportation costs both increased.

The costs are based on the next school fiscal year of July 1999 through June 2000. The actual amount to be paid by Upton during its own calendar fiscal year of 1999 is about $38,000.

Accounts seeing a decrease from 1998 would be Town Office, Miscellaneous, Summer Roads, Transfer Station, Insurance, Legal Fees and Municipal Building. Several of those accounts saw surpluses this year, so selectmen are recommending less money, said LeComte.

LeComte's term on the Board of Selectmen is expiring, and he said he is willing to serve again. He knows of no other candidates at this time. Likewise, his wife, Ellie, will serve again on the School Committee if no one else expresses interest, he said.

Walter Stanczyk, town clerk, treasurer and tax collector is expected to run again for those positions, said LeComte.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the Municipal Building.

PLAN CAREFULLY BEFORE BORROWING FROM YOUR 401(k)
If you participate in a 401(k) plan at work, you're probably planning for retirement. But if you need money before retirement, should you borrow from your 401(k)?
The IRS allows you to borrow up to half of your 401(k) account, with a cap of $50,000. However, not all plans allow borrowing. If you do, you'll generally be required to repay your loan within five years, although home loans can be stretched out longer. Interest rates and repayment terms vary from plan to plan.
Many people view borrowing from a 401(k) as a no-lose proposition, but there are some potential drawbacks. For example, borrowing doesn't always add to your net worth, and can often decrease it. To understand why, let's say that your 401(k) is invested in a stock mutual fund. In order to generate cash for your loan, your plan must sell the fund, and you lose whatever return the fund would have generated. Even though you repay your loan with interest, all of the money that you use for repayment is your own money that you are simply shifting from your checking account to your 401(k).
Another hidden cost of borrowing from your 401(k) is double taxation. This can happen because the money used to repay your loan will be subject to tax when it's distributed at retirement, even though that money may have previously been taxed when you earned it. Depending on how many years you are from retirement, this kind of double taxation can be extremely expensive.
Borrowing from a 401(k) is an important financial decision, and it's essential to review all of the tax and financial implications before you sign the loan documents. Contact us for any assistance you need.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston

Robert and Michelle, Lauren and Tommy Conroy have returned from a two-week trip to Ponce Inlet, Fla., where they visited Michelle's parents, Tom and Jean Awod. While there they visited Disneyland and lots of interesting places.

The quilt on display at the Bethel Library is going on tour so that more people may view it and take a chance. This quilt is "Grandmother's flower garden," done in blue and yellow.

Stacey and Elise Keniston of Turner participated in the OM competition at CMTC on Saturday. They were involved with the Environment Challenge. Grandparents, Bob and Ginny Keniston, attended.

Mary Keniston was guest of honor at a Birthday Dinner Party at the Trolley House in Norway.

Those present were Far... Keniston, Donna and Al Howe, Donald Rice, Sheldon and Jackie Rice and Jaidyn and Bryenna Rice.

Ruth Silver was a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital a few days this week.

Guests of Rodney and Gerry Howe on Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. Jack Hart, Eiranne and Christopher of Bangor.

Weekend guests of Muriel Butters were her daughter, Lottie Stevens and sons Alex and Aaron of Bar Harbor.

The Greenwood Historical Society met Wednesday, March 3. Guests Frankie Flanders and James Francis Wiles from Norway were introduced. Frankie's hobby is blacksmithing and he had many items that he had made to show and tell about. Two-hundred calendars have been sold for the 50/50 club drawing posted at the Locke Mills Post Office and Maine Line Products. A Membership Committee was appointed, with Ivan Morey, chairman. A VCR tape of Ice Storm '98 was donated by Ivan Morey. It was made by the road crew. Ben Conant will be guest speaker at the April 7 meeting, with his topic being, "Settling of Oxford County."

Get your tickets for the Mud Ball to be held Friday, March 16, at the Gould Academy William Bingham Gymnasium. The Phil Rich Big Band will play. Jan Todd has tickets, also the Big Apple.

Stu, Becky, Kallie and Colin Wagner of Dennyville surprised Becky's parents, Bob and Polly Davis, with a weekend visit to celebrate her mother's birthday. Other out-of-town visitors were Craig Davis, of Lewiston, Ryan Davis of Rumford, and Adam Davis of Lisbon.

At last the post office is back on Main Street. It certainly was a long battle and I am so thankful we won.

I remember it was late October of 1995 that I was asked to sign a petition to keep the post office on Main Street. Again, I think we owe our thanks to Lindsey, but there were many others involved, and thanks to all that fought so hard to keep the post office on Main Street.

We were asked to write to Cohen, Baldacci and Snowe, and I did. Cohen ignored my letter. Snowe wrote that she would do her part and that she would keep me posted on the results; that was the last I heard from her. Baldacci made the same promise as Snowe, and he kept his word; every little while I would hear from him about the progress. At last the letter that stated the post office would remain on Main Street was received. Many thanks to everyone that helped to make this possible.

Paul Bartlett visited his mother, Helena, at the Bethel House recently and did some errands for her.

Nancy Cummings took me to the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday and I purchased post-cards of Angus. I am mailing them to folks that may not be able to see Angus in person and to some that might like a card for a souvenir. They are very flimsy cards and I would not want to take a chance mailing them without putting them in an envelope. They are too wide for a regular envelope, but can easily be cut down without cutting any of the information about him.

Nancy visited me afterward and played with my Furby. He talked and laughed for her and also sang to her, but he rudely said he did not like her.

In spite of the snowstorm on the 6th of March and into Sunday morning, there was a good attendance at the Bethel Alliance Church. Special recognition of 1999 elected officers and appointed ministries was given. Pastor Rick's message was "Christian Individualism." Communion was also observed. The evening meeting was canceled.

Many churches around, including the one in West Bethel village, did cancel their morning services.

Some from the Church of the Nazarene, also some from the West Bethel Church, attended services at Bethel Alliance on the 7th when their churches were closed because of the storm.

I would like to be able to give old man winter a boot and get him out of here. I expect a lot of people would be willing to help me, but expect there are a lot that if we did, would not like us anymore.

I really do dread the hot, humid days of summer, but nice spring weather sure would be welcome.

Vada came Tuesday and took me to the store, the bank and the post office. We went to the Frozen Logger and had a great dinner of chicken tenders.

We played 12 games of cribbage and I had better luck that day. I won eight of them, and now at 97 games, Vada is only seven ahead. I even had a 28 hand. Just maybe my luck has changed.

Kane Olson, son of Chris and Cindy Olson, in the eighth grade made the high honors list.

Karl Olson, son of Chris and Cindy Olson, made the honors list in the sixth grade.

Millie Jackson will celebrate a birthday on March 27.

Jerry Bernier was home, for spring break, from Maine Maritime Academy on March 7 to 14.

Carl and Dori Hall and children, Heather and Whitney, of Durham visited Arlene Harrington from March 12 to 14.

Judy Smith of Bucksport visited Arlene Harrington on March 13 and 14. All went snowmobiling both days. The weather was nice for it.

Andover

by Tina Farrington

The Andover Service Circle held its monthly meeting at the library on March 10. The group voted donations to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Bowl-A-Thon, the March of Dimes, the American Lung Association's Trek Across Maine, the American Cancer Society's Daffodil drive, the elementary school activities fund, and a local resident for emergency assistance due to a fire. Three scholarships were recently provided for local art students. Members are preparing for the 18th annual Community Birthday Calendar drive beginning in May. The next meeting will be held April 14 at the library at 6:30 p.m. Anyone interested in participating in a community service organization, please feel free to attend.

Ten members of the East Andover Community Club and one guest met on March 8 at the CEB with Evelyn Bell and Barbara Meisner as co-hostesses. Treasurer Violet Swain gave the 1998 annual report. Secretary Dottie Arsenault reported many cards sent out. It was voted to send a former member, Helena Goodwin, a card shower. Four more were added to the "70" list. Voted for extra awards at the Andover Alumni Dinner on May 28. Evelyn Bell won the door prize. Mystery sisters exchanged St. Patrick's gifts. A food auction followed the meeting. Dessert was served.

Leon and Jean Lewis returned from Clearwater, Fla., a month early due to sickness in the family. Jean reports missing the 80-degree temps and sun already.

The Awana clubs of the Calvary Congregational Church hosted a camp presentation from Camp Good News in Livermore Falls. Campers ages 8 (completed grade two) through 13 years are eligible to attend. Camp Good News is a Christian camp run through Child Evangelism Fellowship of Maine. For more information or information on scholarships to attend camp, contact CCC camp coordinator Barb Bailey at 392-4071.

Woodstock Improvement Association will meet with the town manager Thursday, March 25, at 5 p.m. in the Town Office. All interested citizens are encouraged to attend.

Judith Grover Tent 17, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met on Monday, March 8, with five members present. The Junior vice president, Helvi Cary, served as president. Ten calls were reported. Dues were received from several members. It was voted to have a silent auction in April for Michelle's project. It was voted to have a food and craft sale with white elephant tables on Saturday, May 15, at the Grange Hall. The Daughters gave a two-drawer file cabinet to the V.A. Clinic office at Rumford. It was mentioned we get names of veterans in homes that have no family and send them cards, etc. A tasting party was held and a silent auction to go toward the Granddaughters' Breakfast at the Department. Next meeting is April 12.

Kristen Cushman, daughter of Dot Cushman of Bryant Pond, will be married on July 3, 1999 to Hal Inman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Inman of Houlton. They will reside in Portland.

Bobby Scherf is in Englewood, Fla., visiting his mother, the former Ida Cushman of Bryant Pond. Dot Cushman (Ida's sister-in-law) is accompanying him.

Sarah Caret, daughter of Patty and Gary Caret, is a ski instructor for young children at Sunday River. She will be spending her spring break teaching at the mountain. Also teaching skiing at the mountain is Mary Gartner, who just retired to Bryant Pond with her husband Peter.

Bryant Pond Hour on Channel IV TV is Thursday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Good News Club meets each Tuesday at 6 to 7:15 p.m. at the Church Annex.

On Saturday, March 20, there will be an Open House Welcome party from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Awana Room, to give people a chance to meet the new pastor and his wife, Peter and Becky Laitres, of the Baptist Church. Come meet them.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Frederick (Bud) Noyes II in his death.

Sympathy also is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Hanson, Ellen and Barbara Rozelle in the death of their nephew's wife, Lenore Rozelle, who was a missionary in Scotland.

At the next Senior Citizens dinner in April, the speakers will be Janet Rowley and Wayne MacDougall from Principal Life Insurance and Medicare supplement insurance. This meeting is April 1 at the Grange Hall.

Everyone contributes to the success of the historical society. Thanks to the officers and committees especially, but to all the other members as well. Curator Larry Billings says he believes the Woodstock Historical Society has made an outstanding contribution to the area. He feels its museum, especially, is exceptional and is glad he has helped build its collections. Paul Billings has given a book on Bethel's 200th birthday to the society.

We had a busy week last week. I took Mona to Portland on Wednesday for her foot surgery.

It was initially scheduled to be performed at 8:45 a.m. at Mercy Hospital, but was rescheduled for the Brighton Campus of Maine Med. for 2:45 p.m. because all the beds at Mercy were full, many of them with flu patients. Apparently, there is a near epidemic of flu cases in the Portland area.

At any rate, Dr. Pomeroy, a foot specialist, removed and replaced a torn tendon in Mona's left foot, taking replacement parts from toe tendons and a piece of bone from her left hip. After about an hour and a half, Mona was wheeled into post-op with a much larger looking left foot and a lot more pain than she had before (medication took care of most of the pain). I brought her home Friday morning, and she is gradually able to get around the house more, using a walker and wheel chair. I think it will be some time before she bounds up and down stairs, though. Dr. Pomeroy says the recovery will take six months to a year, when she should finally be pain free again.

House cats have the reputation of not being very intelligent animals, but our Tucker is smarter than the average house cat. For one thing, he is five or six years old, quite a feat here in the midst of coyote country. A couple years ago, we had Tucker's front feet declawed; not more than two days after we brought him home toenailless, he came home with a full-grown partridge, which he proceeded to devour one half of on the front lawn. Since then, he spends most of his summer days attached to a dog run cable. Tuck also has an annoying habit for getting our attention when he is outside, wanting in. He goes to the window of whatever room we are in and scratches on the glass; actually, it is more of a rapid rapping on the window with the pads of his feet (no toenails!). He keeps this up until we let him in. He even found the bedroom window of the downstairs bedroom at about 5 a.m., where we plan to sleep until Mona recuperates.

Several years ago, Tuck also discovered the doorsteps on most of our interior doors; they are the spring type with a plastic tip that make a really annoying twanging vibration when hit and released. He loves to twang the doorsteps when he wants attention, like when he is shut in a bedroom and wants out. A short while ago, we were awakened in the middle of the night by Tucker's rambunctious antics; he would tear around the house, running up and down stairs, then twang a doorstep a few times, then jump up on the bed and try to annoy us with his kneading in the most sensitive places. When we failed to respond, he began the sequence all over again. Finally, the alarm went off. I went into the bathroom and ran some water into the vanity for Tuck, which he often likes to drink. I'd rather have him drinking out of the vanity than the toilet, but I don't know why I care when he doesn't! Anyway, to my surprise, Tuck hunched up in the water and pooped in the water. Then it dawned on me; I had shut the door to the basement before I went to bed, and Tuck couldn't get to his litter box in the basement. Normally, we leave that door open ajar, just for Tuck. I guess he showed me!

Sunday River Valley

by Rockie Graham
Another beautiful Sunday is upon us. Although today wasn't overly sunny, it made up for it by being spring warm. The snow that remains in the field was wet and slushy. Tashi only post holed a little while running. It did not slow her down nor keep her from running into the woods. She was after some scent and did not heed my calls, but eventually she tired of the chase and came back.

As happened to many others, the flu bug came back and bit me again. I got to spend most of my vacation indoors. I also didn't get much done. So much for big plans and hopes to play catch up. Now I get to do it while in school. The worst part of it has been that my mind has been fuzzy and my greatest desire has been to hide out.

I don't know about anyone else, but we are coming to the end of our woodpile. I do not really understand why. It has been a mild winter without too many cold nights. We started with more wood than ever, and somehow have used it. Perhaps it is a result of the lack of snow for insulation. In any case, if it doesn't get warm, soon, it may be a cold spring. Actually, we aren't in any real trouble, I'm just amazed to have gone through so much wood in such a warm winter.

I'm wondering if others have received one of those calls to spend 90 minutes looking at a condo and receive free hotel/motel stays or free airline tickets? I know I'm a bit of a sucker for those; I'm always looking for a free airline ticket. I've just never been called by someone at a place nearby. I assume others have received the same call. Maybe we can all go off together to the Bahamas or ? Even though it was a warm Sunday, right now a trip to someplace warm sounds awfully good to me. All the other calls like this that I've received entailed long drives. This is close to home and actually on my path home. Maybe next time I write I'll be talking about a trip to the Bahamas. More likely, it will turn out to be a ruse and I won't even get a free night stay or a meal in Bethel. I'll keep everyone posted. Enjoy the forecasted snow/rain and stay warm and dry.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
Seek beauty and you find it in so many things past and present. It is in the friendly handshake or a happy smile on the face of one you meet.

Beauty comes from the sound of music in the heart, the song of a bird, or the rustle of leaves. At the break of day in the golden dawn, beauty is fresh on the greening hills or when the countryside is white with snow. There in the distance, one may see a mailbox path on a little round hill covered with pine, an expression of grandeur and solemnity. A pine grove has character unique, with a certain harmonious blending of lightness and darkness, bringing a feeling of cheerfulness or gloom; lights ever changing because of the thickness above. Sometimes passing beneath we feel a little of the religious awe as men passing beneath the great arches of a cathedral.

Underneath and among the winter trees are creatures seeking a warmer nook from winds that whisper of zero weather. Within their sheltered haunts are the foxes with graceful beauty gliding from the stone fences across the snow. Within a hollow sleeps the raccoon waiting, just waiting. The rabbit, the partridge, the mouse with its lacy trails here and there, and the white-tailed deer biding time until another spring.

These same trees whisper to those that nestle there while branches reach upward toward the brightness of the sky, while the silent earth is resting enfolded in the silence of white solitude.

Out across the frozen field or down a trodden trail, the winter moonlight leads us through the rustle of cattle weeds to a pond's edge. Pause here for grace and beauty as skates cut figures at times in the ice and skaters whirl round and round silhouetted against the gleam of a distant bonfire.

Then the glow of a light in the window leads to the cheery warmth of home.

"Beauty is so many things, friends we know and love ... / Little things and shining stars, / Snow white clouds above, / All our hearts might find worthwhile in this world of His ... / A garden path all fresh with dew, / That's what beauty is." -- Garnett Schultz

The pond now looks rough and wind-blown.

I hope you all a happy St. Patrick's Day and had your fill of corned beef and cabbage for this year. March 17th puts me in a sentimental frame of mind. My mother, Sarah Duddy, came from County Donegal in 1923. She never returned to her homeland and became 98-percent American. The other percent emerged each year when the Irish music, soda bread, and corned beef and cabbage made its annual appearance. She made scones on a regular basis, but this was something different.

Evelyn Kenney, Sue Nelson, Ann Dawson from Mexico, and I went to the first flower show of the season in Portland. It was without a doubt the first breath of spring with all the plants and trees in full bloom.

On St. Patrick's day, Terry Beauchene and I took a bus out of Berlin and headed for the big city to attend the New England Flower Show and a tour of the Gardiner Museum. We also had lunch at the museum. The flower show was extremely crowded with people from all walks of life. It was a bit overwhelming after spending the winter with about 40 neighbors in Lpton.

I had a note from my old friend, Frannie Poor's daughter, Penny. She and her dad have a sugar operation on the Andover Road in Andover. If the snow lets up, I'd like to visit it and see them in action. The snow must be a godsend to the tree tappers. If we could get some warm days it would help.

Winter never went away. It just reinforced its position. The lake afforded very good snowmobiling, probably the best of the season. The ice fishermen and cross-country skiers also made good use of it. The snow groomers did an excellent job of keeping the trails in good shape. The "mushers" head up the lake from the Public Landing in Cambridge on a regular basis.

The deer have taken to lying down in the woods around the house after feeding time. They are a great sight with their antenna ears not missing a sound. As winter wanes they are a lot bolder, but they keep their distance and remind us that they are still wild creatures. They bolt and flip up their white tails and disappear in the twinkling of an eye.

Cabin fever is rampant with the return of the snow. Window watchers and shovelers curse it and no longer extol its beauty. They long for color in their lives, not giving a thought to the black flies in their future.

Larry Nelson has some good pictures of the bobcat that visits their bird feeder.

The "Bird of the Week" is the "Snow Bird," ensconced on some Florida beach without a snow shovel or a thought about the never ending "white stuff."

There will be a combined celebration for Zella Silver for her 100th birthday and the 50th wedding anniversary for Maurice and Phyllis Morgan. The party will be held Sunday, March 21, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Ledgeview Nursing Home, in the Anderson Auditorium, Route 26 in West Paris. Everyone is welcome to attend and visit with Zella, Maurice and Phyllis and give them your best wishes.

Zella Silver is the oldest person in Woodstock.

There will be a preliminary open house held at the Whitman Memorial Library on March 18 and 19 from 2 to 7:30 p.m. and also on March 20 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is being held so everyone can see how much has already been done to the library so far and what is left to be done. There will be someone there to show you around and answer questions. Refreshments will be served. Please plan to attend one of the days.

Ring-McKeen Post 151 and Auxiliary met at the Finnish Society home recently. Pizza, chips and ice cream sundaes were served to the local Cub and Boy Scout troops. A flag ceremony was held by Mr. Martell, second commander Brian Stickland and Mr. Wing from Peru. Amy Bartlett took pictures. After the ceremony the different Cub packs and Boy Scout members gave demonstrations, etc. The Girl Scouts have been invited to come to a similar meeting on Tuesday, March 23.

Sympathy goes out to the family of Fred Noyes, who died recently. Fred leaves his wife, Mary, of almost 60 years, children and grandchildren.

Jessie Hart is sporting a new car. She came up so we could take a look at it one night recently.

I had the pleasure of having Bob Heath stop and pay me a short visit one day last week. I hadn't seen him for quite a while and was glad to catch up on news of his family. He brought me a copy of a poem that his daughter Debra (now deceased) wrote many years ago.

Tara Monza made the honor roll at Oxford Elementary School. Also making the honor roll at Telstar High School are Brandy Poland, Emily Phillips, Jeremy Curley, Neil Thurlow and Tricia Hadley. Danny Morgan made the honor roll at Telstar Middle School.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Annella Burnham says she enjoyed her trip south and visited many historic places. The museum has received children's books on great artists and Queen Elizabeth I and some figurines.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that housework is something a woman does, but no one notices -- until she doesn't do it."

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. What's news this week?

I would say the Stoneham

Town Meeting,

which went well Saturday. There were some challenges in the voting this year. The new town clerk's job went to Heather Lee, who has been the deputy clerk the past half year. Her duties will also include tax collector and secretary. Mary Fox, the former town clerk, will be the town treasurer and help Heather as needed. Lois Niemi and Bette Woodbury resigned from selectmen's jobs and were replaced by Neal Littlefield for a three-year term and Steve Fox for one-year term.

Jim Tinder showed charts and explained about the town's budget and cash flow in and out.

Becky Gicker was put on the cemetery committee, which includes Dan Barker and Monika Spooner.

At 12:30 p.m. a nice lunch was served there of hot chili and hot dogs, coffee and cold drinks and all kinds of good pies by the Firemen's Women's Auxiliary ladies.

About 50 people showed up at the meeting, which is good, although there could have been a lot more to show interest in the town's affairs.

John Woodbury was the moderator of the meeting and did a good job as usual. There were 68 articles to vote on.

Church services are being held at the North Waterford Church during the month of March from 10 to 11 a.m., with coffee time following. Sunday school starts at 9:15 a.m.

Ralph and Harriett Brown have been spending time in Palatine, Ill., with their daughter Bobby-Ann. Ralph has finally gotten his medical boot off, which is encouraging. They are doing okay.

On Tuesday, March 9, I attended the Oxford County Republicans supper and meeting at the Deering Memorial Church in South Paris. It was a wonderful turkey dinner and a good meeting. Kathy Watson, chair of the Maine State Republican Committee, was the speaker of the evening. All Oxford County Republicans are encouraged to attend these meetings. Did you know that Abe Lincoln was our first Republican president? He's always been my favorite. The next meeting is scheduled to be the second Tuesday in April at Otisfield.

I've been enjoying reading and looking at "The Stranger," which is an old 1944 Yearbook of Bridgton Academy. That's 55 years old, isn't it? There were quite a number of names in it that I recognized.

I hope you all had a Happy St. Patrick's Day. That was Gladys Kilgore's favorite day. Did you have corned beef and cabbage? That's usually a tradition in this house.

This week at the

Moses Mason House

The 1998-99 exhibit, "The Way Life Should Be: Tourism, Romance, and Reality in Early Modern Maine," has now closed its Bethel appearance and will be opened at the Bangor Historical Society next month. Many thanks are due the Maine Humanities Council for funding the exhibit and the Maine Historical Society for their loan of it for the past several months.

This year's exhibit on John Francis Sprague and his Sprague's Journal of Maine History will be in Bethel beginning in July. It is made possible by a grant from the Maine Humanities Commission and the L.C. Bates Museum in Hinckley. To complement this exhibit, the society is sponsoring a series of lectures at monthly meetings on Maine historians and their work. Dr. N.T. True and Dr. William B. Lapham have already been featured.

Next month, Margaret Joy Tibbetts will focus on Eva Bean. In May, Earle Shettleworth, Jr. will make a presentation on Elizabeth Ring. Marius Peladeau will open the exhibit with a discussion of John Francis Sprague in August. Neil Rolde will speak on James Phinney Baxter at the Annual Meeting and Herbert Adams will complete the series with a talk on Fanny Hardy Eckstorm in November.

Anyone wishing more information should call the society at 824-2908 or visit the Web site: <http://orion.bdc.bethel.me.us/~history>.

From the

Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

Many thanks for the continued support of the many volunteers who have come to help out in the chamber office this past week: Barbara Freeman, Pat Thurston, Ruth Silver, Sandra Frye, Marjorie Osgood, and Polly Davis. Their efforts have made all the difference in the world.

The chamber held its seventh annual Bethel Area Mountain Madness Alpine Derby at Sunday River Ski Resort on Monday, March 15. Many thanks to Sunday River for the use of their facilities, to Callie Phillips for event support and to Jed Dole for food service support. This event was made possible through the incredible support of our sponsors and prize donors. A full "Thank You" ad will appear in next week's Bethel Citizen. Also, many thanks to all the teams who turned out for this fun annual event.

Paula Wheeler, event coordinator, and board member, Kimberly Poland, have already begun their planning for the second annual Antique Show and Sale, scheduled for Saturday, June 5. More on this forthcoming.

All are invited to plan to attend the chamber's annual Awards Dinner, scheduled for Friday, May 7, at the Grand Summit Hotel and Conference Center. We are accepting nominations for the following awards: the Henry H. Hastings Award for Citizenship, the Lifetime Achievement Award and the Business of the Year Award. All nominations need to be in the chamber office by April 2. Please mail them to PO Box 1247, Bethel, ME 04217, or hand deliver them. Thanks.

From the

Bethel Senior Citizens

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met March 10 at the Methodist Church with 56 members present. Cakes were made by Jane Hosterman and Helen Saunders.

President Helen Saunders conducted the meeting and led the salute to the flag. Reports were given by Jane Hosterman, Tillie Meyers and Arlene Lowell. Tillie had a schedule for the dinners, programs and trips that was given to all members presents.

The door prize was won by Donald Demarest and the raffle, which was a lap robe donated by Cecile Lescault, was won by Martha Sweatt. The next meeting will be April 14 at the North Waterford Church.

Tillie Meyers read a poem entitled "Volunteers." Several members read humorous readings.

March birthdays are: Iva Abraham, Alberta Angevine, Muriel Butters, Ethelyn Caillouet, Lyndell Carter, Polly Davis, Geraldine Howe, Mildred Jackson, Mary Keniston, Linwood Machia, Marna McGinniss, Elizabeth Morse, Betty Perkins, Reggie Westleigh, Pauline Wieden and Maxine Wright.

Resort. The Ski-A-Thon has been the largest single-day fundraiser in Maine for several years, raising more than $230K every year since 1993. These funds represent 90 percent of Maine Handicapped Skiing's annual budget, allowing hundreds of children and adults who have a physical disability learn a winter sport for no charge.

Ski-A-Thon teams consist of five skiers or boarders who each raise a minimum of $600 to support Maine Handicapped Skiing; then they come to Sunday River on March 20 for free skiing or riding, a colorful T-shirt, three delicious meals, entertainment from Gary Crocker, a Maine humorist, and Slugger, the Sea Dogs mascot, dancing to the Boneheads and the opportunity to win fabulous prizes including ski vacations, equipment and apparel.

For the first year, the Ski-A-Thon will feature a Fun Race, sponsored by Aircast, an innovative manufacturer of orthopedic devices that promote functional management, located in Summit, N.J. All Ski-A-Thon participants can compete as individuals or with their team in the Aircast Fun Race, which will be held on the slalom course on Sunday River's Monday Mourning trail. Racers will wear official bibs and be cheered on by ringing cowbells as they descend the course. Aircast Fun Racers can also purchase a chance to compete against Julie Parisien, an Auburn native and three-time Olympian, who will be a Ski-A-Thon special guest. Parisien will also meet and greet fundraisers and sign posters during the Ski-A-Thon's 4 to 6 p.m. cocktail hour and dinner at the Summit Hotel.

Maine Handicapped Skiing is a nonprofit organization headquartered at Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry, MHS, a free program, brings the freedom of movement unique to winter sports to individuals who have a physical disability. MHS can be reached by phone at (800) 639-7770 or 824-2440; by fax at 824-0453; by E-mail at info@skimhs.org; or via regular mail at RR 3 Box 1971, Newry, ME 04261. You can also visit the MHS web site at www.skimhs.org.

COMMUNITY CALENDAR
To submit events for the Community Calendar, you may bring in your copy to The Bethel Citizen or call the office at 824-2444, by noon on Mondays.

From the Oxford County Democrats

The Oxford County Democratic Committee will meet at 3 p.m. on March 21 at the Newry Grange on Route 16 in Newry. The agenda will be:

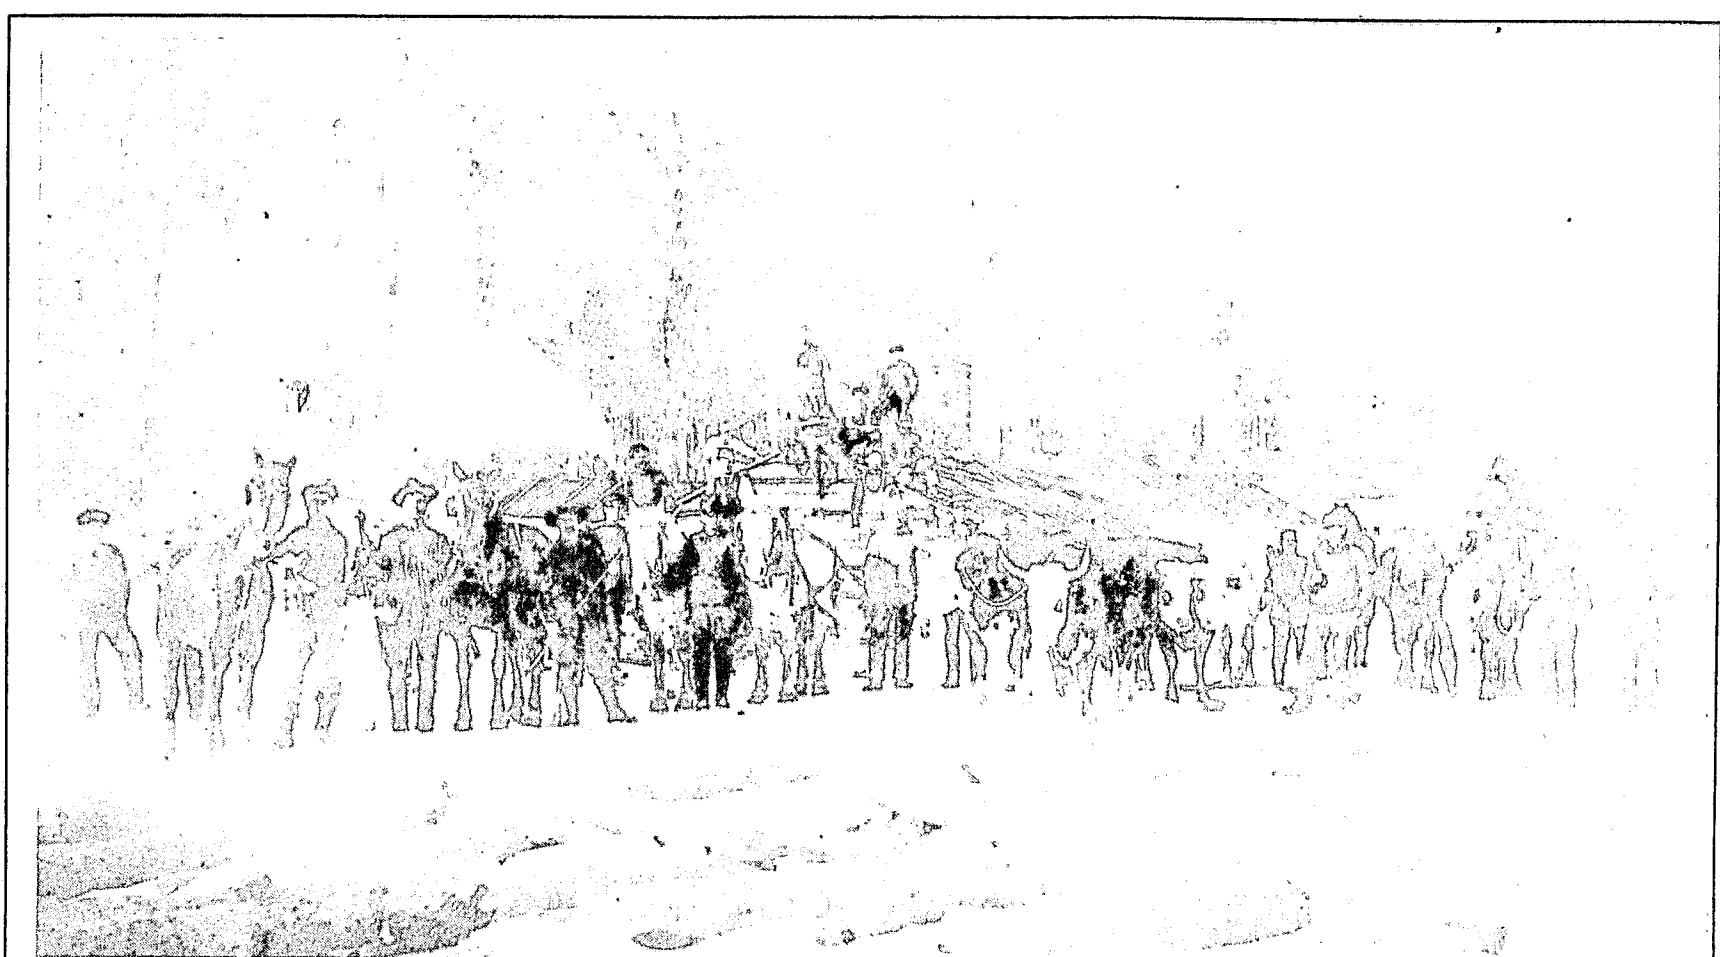

- District committees meetings, 3 to 4 p.m.
- County Committee meeting, 4 to 4:30 p.m. 1) election for open County Committee offices; 2) Voter File Project; 3) State Committee report.
- Turkey Dinner, 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. (We are asking for a $10 donation.)

From the Oxford County Republicans

State Republican chair Kathy Watson of Pittsfield was the featured speaker at the March monthly meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee held at the Deering Memorial Chapel in Market Square, South Paris.

After a delicious turkey dinner, served by the church volunteers, Ms. Watson addressed the assembled Republicans from many parts of Oxford County. She stressed planning and working together to make sure 2000 is a great Republican year. She complimented Oxford County for being such a success in raising money, and recruiting and electing Republicans. She thanked the county for all its assistance in raising money for the State Party in the past.

During the business meeting, vice chair Barbara Robinson of Paris presided in the absence of the chair, Dawn Cummings of Norway. Reports on the success of last month's Lincoln Day Dinner were heard, where nearly $1,800 was raised to support candidates in 2000. Rebecca Kendall of Bethel, treasurer of the Bethel Republican Committee, presented a check for $400 to the County Committee. This is the first town in 1999 to assist with the county's goal of soliciting $1 per Republican from all the towns within Oxford County. Mrs. Robinson urged other towns to follow Bethel's example. Another contribution to fulfill its entire quota will be made later in the year by the Bethel Republican Committee.

MEN, HORSES AND OXEN involved in one of Guy Thurston's logging operations in the Bethel area around the turn of the century are shown above. This photograph is but one of thousands owned by the Bethel Historical Society, which also possesses an outstanding collection of manuscripts, books, documents, and artifacts relating to western Maine and northern New Hampshire. The society is currently raising funds for its proposed Regional History Center on Broad Street, which will also provide for improved storage and greater access to collections as well as rooms devoted to exhibits, educational activities, research, traditional crafts, and museum shop operations. To learn more about this project, call the society at 824-2908 or 1-800-824-2910 or use the e-mail address: history@bdc.bethel.me.us or visit the web site at <http://orion.bdc.bethel.me.us/~history>.

Reps. Robert Cameron (R-Rumford), Tom Winsor (R-Norway), Ted Heidrich (R-Oxford), and Arlan Jodrey (R-Bethel) were present to report on what is happening in the Maine Legislature. Other Oxford County office holders reporting were Sheriff Lloyd Herrick and County Commissioner Steve Merrill.

The next meeting was scheduled for Otisfield on April 13.

From the Jackson-Silver Aux.

Details in planning for the national president's visit and banquet took up much of the regular meeting of Jackson-Silver Unit on March 4.

The president, Virginia Hobbs, will be arriving on April 1 and in Bethel that afternoon. The following day she will have breakfast at Briar Lea, then visit the V.A. outreach clinic in Rumford. From there she will go to South Paris where she will visit the residents of the Western Maine Veterans Home and have lunch.

Her banquet will be at the Locke Mills American Legion Post at 6 p.m., after a 5 p.m. social hour. After the program, which follows, there will be dancing to the music of "The Under Achievers."

The banquet menu offers a choice of baked haddock or breast of chicken. The cost is $10 and reservations must be made in advance, stating the choice of fish or chicken. Send to Olive Risko, 27 Felt Road, Bryant Pond, ME 04219 or phone 665-2909. All reservations must be made before March 31. The Unit has recently passed out bookmarks with an anti-drug message to the SAD44 schools just in time for Read Across America Day.

The Auxiliary will be serving the annual birthday supper to honor the American Legion on March 18 at 6 p.m. All members are urged to attend and may bring a guest, but those planning to come should make their intentions known by calling 875-2375 and leaving a message on the machine, if there is no other answer.

In other business, the nominating committee presented their suggestions for a slate of officers for the coming year, it was voted to have another card party on March 21 and Evanna Davis reported on her efforts to find girls interested in attending Girls State. It was voted to send two girls this time instead of the usual three, there being only those two who are interested in going.

To spend a pleasant Sunday afternoon, March 21, gather some friends and come to the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills to play cards or other table games from 1 to 4 p.m.

EASTER CANTATA

The choir of the Bethel Church of the Nazarene will present "Crucified with Christ and Yet I Live," March 28 at 6 p.m. under the direction of the Rev. Deborah Grant. Consisting of chorale presentations interspersed with solos and duets, this exciting musical will take place in the sanctuary of the Nazarene Church, which is located at 16 Church Street in Bethel.

The public is invited, and there is no admission fee. More information is available by calling 824-3766.

PHILLIPS QUALIFIES FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

Lacy Phillips, a junior at Telstar High School, has qualified for the Maine Music Educators' Association Solo and Ensemble Festival at Bates College on April 24.

Phillips performed the solo vocal piece "Alma Mia," from Handel's Floridante, at a Saturday audition at the University of Southern Maine in Gorham. She received 67 points out of a possible 70 from the judges.

Students from all over southern and western Maine will participate in the Bates festival.

GILBERT RECEIVES EARLY ADMISSION

Malinda Gilbert of Bethel has been admitted to Bates College under its Early Decision Program.

A senior at Telstar High School, Gilbert is the daughter of Rebecca and Reginald Gilbert.

From the
Oxford County Fund

The Maine Community Foundation's Oxford County Fund is seeking proposals from nonprofit and public organizations that need funding for projects that apply community strengths to help address some of the region's problems.

The next deadline for submitting grant applications will be May 15; awards will be made in September. The last deadlines in 1999 will be Sept. 1.

The Oxford County Fund seeks requests in the range of $1,000 to $5,000. Proposals should focus on new initiatives or projects, rather than fund ongoing support, and should focus on building on the strengths of the community rather than its needs and deficiencies. Applicants are encouraged to actively involve people they hope to serve in the project's design and implementation.

Proposals are reviewed by an advisory committee of local residents. Members of the Oxford County Fund Advisory Committee include Wendy Penley of Bethel, Wayne Gallant of Rumford, Joanne Ippolito of Bethel, Lucy Nordahl of Bethel and Elaine Montpelier of Norway.

The Oxford County Fund is one of seven county funds held by the Maine Community Foundation, a statewide, nonprofit community foundation. Other counties with restricted funds include Washington, Waldo, Knox, Piscataquis, and Aroostook counties, as well as the Western Mountain region.

A statewide organization with offices in Portland and Ellsworth, the Maine Community Foundation manages a variety of charitable funds, all of which are devoted to strengthening Maine. Maine residents, committed to building on the state's tradition of strong communities, establish these funds.

With the interest earned from the investment of these funds, the foundation awards scholarships to Maine students and grants to Maine nonprofit and public organizations.

From

FACES

Each year the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI) holds its annual conference to give family members and consumers, as well as professionals, a chance to learn about the latest developments in the research of mental illness. This year, FACES (Friends/Families and Consumers for Education and Support) will be sending six people to this conference and will need to raise $4,500 to do so.

In order to raise the needed money, FACES has several fundraiser events planned. On March 27 at 6:30 p.m., Gary Crocker will be performing at the Rumford Municipal Building Auditorium (third floor of the Rumford Town Office). The opening act will be a local up and coming magician, Nick Graham.

Crocker is a Maine native. He is recognized throughout Maine as one of those furniture and appliance buying lobstermen that appeared in ads on WCSH television. His Downeast stories will humor and teach the value of laughter. Tickets are currently available at the Greater Rumford Alliance for the Mentally Ill office and will be available in the community at a later date. The price for tickets is $7 for adults and $5 for children under 12.

Another fundraiser in progress is a raffle. The first-place winner receives a $300 shopping spree at Mt. Mann Jewelers in Bethel.

Jim Mann, owner, mines and cuts his own jewels. Mann donates the gift certificate, and the winner can pick out a gem or jewel already in a setting, or create his or her own piece of jewelry. Prizes for the second- and third-place winners will be announced at a later date. Tickets for the raffle are also available at the Greater Rumford Alliance for the Mentally Ill office.

Members of FACES are giving presentations about the support group and the conference to local civic organizations in hopes to receive donations. If any organization, business or community member would like to receive a presentation or give a donation, or anyone has questions about any of the fundraisers, call (207) 364-3549 and ask for Chrystal, or mail it to Family Support Program, c/o GRAMI, 150 Congress St., Rumford, ME 04276. GRAMI is a 501(c) 3 nonprofit corporation so all donations are tax deductible.

From the

Bethel Recreation Committee

Baseball placements: The Bethel Recreation Committee has set Saturday, March 27, as the date for placements for the summer baseball program. They will take place at the Gould Academy Field House from 8 to 11 a.m. Any child that wants to play at the Rookie (coach pitches, 7 to 9 years of age), Minor (9 to 12), or Major (10 to 12) league levels needs to be in attendance.

If a child played at the Major league level last summer, they do not have to attend, although they must be signed up at the Town Office by Friday, March 26, or at the Field House the morning of placements.

All girls interested in playing softball (8 to 10 and 10 to 14), boys playing Babe Ruth (13 to 15) and girls and boys planning on playing T-ball should also sign up at the Town Office.

The Recreation Committee is also looking for coaches. If you or someone you know is interested in coaching, you have any questions, or your child is unable to attend, please contact Chris Olson at 824-3279.

Placement times: 8 a.m. -- 7-8 yrs; 9 a.m. -- 9-10 yrs; 10 a.m.-- 11-12 yrs.
